

ESHR Informal Concentration Areas (ICA)

Cognition, Learning, and Development	Couples & Family	Experiential Informal Learning	K-12 Student Interventions
Courses in the Cognition, Learning and Development ICA will help you understand the process of learning and helping and how to engage with different populations in their development of knowledge, skills, and abilities. Industry Jobs (with BA): Public health, private educational settings, non-profit leadership, non-teaching careers such as leadership programs, academic administrators, corporate training, curriculum and textbook development. Higher Education (with Masters, PhD, JD): Counselor Education, Counseling Psychology, School Psychology, Ed Leadership and Policy, Learning Sciences, or Psychological and Quantitative Foundations.	Understand the nature of interpersonal and intimate relationships, the inner workings of family systems, individual and family development, how the family fits into larger society, how to help families under stress or in crisis, how to be an advocate for all families. Industry Jobs (with BA): Social service programs, childcare centers, pre-school programs, 4-H and youth development programs, mental health and substance abuse centers, child and domestic abuse centers and runaway shelters, family policy analyst/advocate, assisted living, adult day services, and nursing homes. Higher Education (with Masters, PhD, JD): Human development and family studies, child life, social work, couple and family therapy.	Build skills to design instruction and support learners in informal learning spaces such as the outdoors, maker spaces, museums, studios, before- and after-school programs, camps, or clubs. Industry Jobs (with BA): State parks and interpretive centers, community centers, youth leadership programs, museums, makerspaces, recreation services, athletic organizations, and summer camps. Higher Education (with Masters, PhD, JD): Learning sciences, educational psychology, museum studies, and informal education. Consider the Undergrad to Grad opportunity! ESHR → Learning Sciences & Educational Psych.	Understand the needs that children have as they cope with trauma, loss, family concerns, and common developmental challenges. Industry Jobs (with BA): Public school para, after school programs, family social service programs, childcare centers, pre-school programs, 4-H and youth centers, mental health and substance abuse centers, child and domestic abuse centers, family policy advocate, at risk student intervention. Higher Education (with Masters, PhD, JD): School counseling, human development and family studies, child psychology, and community agency work.
Learning, Design, and Media	Sports, Society, and Inclusion	Supporting College Students	Trauma-Informed Advocacy
Understand how people learn and use that understanding to design, implement, and evaluate formal and informal learning environments, using an iterative process. Industry Jobs (with BA): Educational technology, educational testing, learning companies, learning and education director, learning strategist, field coach, instructional designer, learning solutions designer, and museum exhibit designer. Higher Education (with Masters, PhD, JD): Learning sciences, instructional design, educational psychology program, human factors. Consider the Undergrad to Graduate (U2G) opportunity! ESHR → Learning Sciences & Educational Psych	Understand the social and political elements that shape participation in sport and exclusion from it. Train students to become advocates for equity and inclusion in sports and vocation connected to it. Industry Jobs (with BA): Athletic coaching, non-profits, and consulting. Higher Education (with Masters, PhD, JD): Higher education, counseling, and law school.	Understand how to work with college students and related systems. College and universities of all sizes and varied purposes are fueled by well-trained professionals and policies that support their students and mission. Industry Jobs (with BA): Admissions counselor, academic coach, residence hall coordinator, multicultural specialist, financial aid officer, TRIO programs specialist. Higher Education (with Masters, PhD, JD): Higher education and student affairs (HESA), college student personnel, counseling, and educational policy programs.	Understand the challenges that individuals who have experienced trauma may face, learn how to advocate and support people who have had these challenging experiences and promote their success. Industry Jobs (with BA): Child protective services, family social service programs, foster care case management, mental health and substance abuse centers, child and domestic abuse centers and runaway shelters, and victim rights advocacy. Higher Education (with Masters, PhD, JD): Community and behavioral health, child life specialist, social work, couple and family therapy, mental health counseling, public policy, and psychology program(s).

Talk to your advisor about using an ICA to refine your academic journey!